

About Coach Battenberg

Terry Battenberg sandwiched a 32 year coaching career with two 26-2 seasons, including his first year at Jesuit High school and his final year at Union Mine High School in 2007. He spent 10 years as a college head coach and assistant (Oregon State, Sacramento State University, Montana Tech, American River) and 22 years at the high school level, winning 12 league titles.

Battenberg has long been known for his high-scoring, fast-breaking attack, featuring inside scoring. His past teams still hold the scoring records at all the high schools he previously coached. (Jesuit, El Dorado, Ponderosa, Union Mine)

He originally studied the speed game under Hall of Fame Coach Ralph Miller at Oregon State in the early 1970's. Later, he learned the Carolina/Kansas Break from UNC/Kansas Assistant Jerod Haase, and added the Primary and Secondary Breaks to his inside attack in recent years.

Coach Battenberg has published two books on Post Play Development and written several articles on basketball during his career. He now runs his own business, FAST BREAK, which is dedicated to the development of both players and coaches.
